Investigate Reasons Why Morgan's Assailant Was Permitted to Plunge from Window

MINEOLA, L. I., July 7.—Despite the coroner's verdict of suicide in the case of Frank Holt the rumor was in circulation here this afternoon that further investigation, possibly by federal authorities, will be made to clear some of the unexplained features of the would-be assassin's death.

An editorial in the New York Evening Sun characterizes the action of the Nassau county officials in permitting the terrorist to end his own life as "utterly disgraceful and hardly short of criminal."

County officials here this afternoon refused to reply to the editorial.

No adequate explanation has as yet been offered as to why, after the unsuccessful attempt at suicide on the night previous, Holt was permitted to remain in a cell, the door of which was not locked.

It is said that both the New York city police and secret officers are confident that Holt's suicide last night cheated them out of a statement, which the ex-professor had promised to make today, which would have been of value in running down other terrorist plots.

No adequate explanation has yet been made of the explosion which Jailer Jerry Ryan first reported was incidental to Holt's suicide. The explanation that this sound was produced by the bursting of the suicide's skill is not generally accepted as probable.

Leaps to Death

GLEN COVE, N. Y., July 7.—Frank Holt, who attempted to kill J. P. Morgan on Saturday, committed suicide in the Nassau county jail at Mineola last night.

Previously he had confessed to detectives that he had made a number of bombs besides the one which was exploded in the senate side of the capitol at Washington on Friday night.

Holt, who was reclining on his cot in his cell, was supposed to be asleep when his guard, Jeremiah Ryan, left the cell for a moment to go across the hallway to another tier of cells.

Holt quickly sprang from the cot and climbed the cell tiers until he reached an open window, through which he crawled and plunged head first to the stone flagging on the small courtyard below.

Physicians who hurried to the scene found that Holt's skull had been crushed and that death had been instantaneous.

The successful attempt at suicide by the confessed maker of many bombs was the second in two days. Monday night, Holt fashioned a knife-like contrivance out of the tin eraser container of a lead pencil and slashed his wrist. The deed was discovered by the guard before the prisoner had lost much blood.

Find Bomb Laboratory

Holt's suicide came with the discovery of one of the most important clues in the case—the finding of a cottage near Hicksville where Holt had lived apparently for weeks and constructed the bomb that partly wrecked the capitol, and practiced shooting at a target for the Morgan attack.

From the Long Island cottage the detectives traced Holt's black trunk to a warehouse in East Thirty-eighth (Continued on Page 6, col. 5).

SMITH BOUND TO CIRCUIT COURT ON FRAUD CHARGE

Man Who Is Alleged to Have Swindled Zeller Brothers Waives Preliminary Hearing

ONE OF VICTIMS IN ASYLUM

Frank Zeller at Mendota as Result of Alleged Swindling by Smith

C. E. Smith, one time state penitentiary inmate who is said to have swindled the operations of "J. Rufus Wallingford," in an alleged $40,000 swindle which took the life earnings of three Zeller brothers, prominent farmers of Arcadia, Wis., today waived preliminary examination on a fraud charge in Judge Anderson's court at Whitehall, and was bound over to await trial before circuit court of Trempealeau county in September.

Arrested in Swell Flat

Smith was arrested in an exclusive Sheridan road apartment in Chicago by Sheriff Torgerson of Trempealeau and Attorney R. S. Cowie, counsel for the Zeller brothers, and brought to Whitehall on extradition papers of Governor Philipp of Wisconsin and Governor Dunn of Illinois.

His arrest disclosed one of the cleverest "get-rich-quick" schemes ever worked on unsuspecting farmer folk. According to evidence which Attorney Cowie now holds, Smith, as owner and head of the National Operating company, an alleged imaginary concern, is said to have taken large blocks of worthless stock from officers of the American Life Insurance company of Illinois, a concern which was in liquidation at the time.

Bit by bit Smith sold the Zeller brothers the stock, until they had turned over practically everything they had to Smith.

One Victim Insane

Frank Zeller, the younger of the brothers, is now in Mendota state insane asylum through worry caused by the loss of his money.

Melodramatic scenes followed Smith's arrest in Chicago. Smith was hustled into an automobile and taken to Evanston. He called loudly from the speeding machine to passing pedestrians to come to his aid, and upon reaching Evanston almost incited a mob to attack those who had him in custody.

As Sheriff Torgerson left his seat in a speeding interurban car between Evanston, Ill., and Milwaukee, Smith ran to the rear platform, and with both hands manacled, tried to leap from the platform.

GERMANY WOULD MAKE MINIMUM GRANTS TO U. S.

Unofficial Negotiations Are Taken as Effort to Find How Little Concession Will Be Accepted

PRESIDENT EXPECTED TO STAND PAT

Officials Opine That Weakening Now Would Mean Trouble in Future Difficulties

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Germany wants to learn the minimum concessions she must make in modifying her submarine warfare, to meet America's views.

This was declared today to be the main purpose of the unofficial negotiations set on foot by the Berlin foreign office with this government. Officials in complete touch with the situation declared the Germans' feeling toward the United States, officially at least, most friendly. To make concessions which would seem to relinquish the submarine as a weapon of offense, however, it was explained, would spell serious trouble at home.

If the president heeds the advice of cabinet officers in whom he has confidence it was said he would stand pat on the three original notes to Berlin. Officials have written to him that they think any weakening now will mean trouble later when new difficulties arise.

It was understood they believed the president will finally say this country cannot withdraw any part of her original correspondence. Despite this they looked for a friendly, polite German message, leaving the door open for further exchanges.

Bethmann-Hollweg in Berlin

BERLIN, via The Hague, July 7.—Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, who returned to Berlin from his daughter's wedding yesterday, conferred with Foreign Secretary von Jagow until an early hour today, regarding the German reply. Following this conference it was stated at the foreign office that the communication probably will be handed to Ambassador Gerard on Saturday.

Excepting Count von Reventlow, editorial writers here have refrained from discussing the probable contents of the reply for several days. The German press on a whole continues to adopt a friendly attitude toward America. Without exception the newspapers, for instance, condemned the attempt to assassinate J. P. Morgan as the act of a crazy man.

Oldest Attorney W. S. Burroughs Reaches 78 Today

Attorney William S. Burroughs, former city attorney and one-time alderman, is today 78 years old. When his many friends shook hands today they were congratulating the oldest practicing attorney in the city.

Mr. Burroughs was born July 7, 1837, in Portage county, Ohio. In the surroundings of what was then the frontier, Mr. Burroughs was reared. When he was 15 years old, his parents removed to De Kalb, Ill.

During the spring of 1857, Mr. Burroughs came to La Crosse with the intention of studying law. He was admitted into the office of Denison and Lyndes, both of whom are now dead. A few years afterwards he was admitted to the bar and has practiced law here continuously since.

Father Hengell Says It Is Now Widely Rejected by Leading Thinkers of the World

Dr. Edwin Lanham, lecturer. Mossler Dramatic company, in sketches, readings and one act plays.

Tomorrow's Program

James A. Manahan, Minnesota, national interest lectures. Dvorak Trio, piano, violin and cello program.

A showery day and threatening damp evening yesterday failed to chill the enthusiasm of La Crosse for the Wisconsin Week chautauqua which is being held in Copeland park under the auspices of local clubwomen. The tent was filled close to capacity at both afternoon and evening sessions. Interest today centered in the lectures of Dr. Edwin Lanham, and the readings, sketches and one act plays of the Mossler Dramatic company, headed by Miss Gertrude Mossler.

Yesterday's program presented the big musical offering of the week with the twenty-one piece Thatcher symphony orchestra. Greatly handicapped although it was by damp weather, which played unpleasant pranks with the strident instruments, the orchestra was well received.

The Thatcher orchestra in both afternoon and evening won big applause with excellently chosen programs for the most part of familiar classic selections. For encore lighter music in popular vein was enthusiastically received.

In the community music hour which preceded the orchestra's evening program, Miss Winifred Forbes and Mr. Harry Marshall, assisting Miss Alice Keith, the chautauqua choral director, sang two duets which were heartily applauded.

Hits Darwin's Doctrine

Darwin's doctrine of evolution through natural selection took some heavy blows in the afternoon from Father H. C. Hengell of Madison, in his lecture, "The Borderland of Reason."

"In some way that we do not understand," Father Hengell said, "reason joins matter and spirit-mind. Reason borders on two provinces—one material, the other spiritual. I aim to show in this lecture that reason is the positive indication of the spiritual principle in man and that its highest purpose is to direct the individual man to his highest destiny."

"While Darwinism constitutes an almost superstitious philosophic creed with the masses, it is now widely rejected by the leading thinkers of the world."

"Natural selection is at best only a negative explanation of the development of animal life. It explains why there are no monkeys around the north pole but it does not explain why the polar bears are there."

A few questions discussed by the speaker were: "Are facts facts, or do we only think they are facts? How do we know that things are as we see and as we think them? How do we know that our thoughts have any relation to reality at all?"

Flouts Agnostics

Continuing, Father Hengell said, "The man who says that he takes nothing for granted and that everything must be proved to him before he accepts it, does not know what he is talking about."

"All knowledge, even mathematics, begins with certain assumptions that cannot be proved."

HOLT THREATENED IN LETTER TO PUT BOMB ABOARD SHIP

Wireless Warnings to Ships at Sea Answered by Philadelphia; Saxonia Not Heard From

NEW YORK, July 7.—The existence of a well defined plot to destroy ships carrying munitions to the allies is said to have been uncovered here today by secret service men who have been investigating the finding of unexploded bombs on three ships reaching Havre in May. The names of the vessels and details are being kept secret.

The missiles on the three ships were placed aboard at ports in this country before sailing. Their failure to explode was attributed to the failure of the acid to penetrate the iron during the voyage. The bombs in each instance were secreted in the cargo.

NEW YORK, July 7.—That Frank Holt hid a bomb on a steamship now bound from here to England was feared by the authorities here today.

Before his attack on J. P. Morgan he sent a letter to the authorities saying a vessel which sailed from New York July 3 would be blown up July 7.

Much secrecy was observed concerning the letter but it was known the authorities here and secret service officials in Washington were informed concerning it.

Whether or not the threat was an empty one, the police had no means of knowing. It could not be learned

Nothing Found on Saxonia

NEW YORK, July 7.—Captain Diggle of the Cunard liner Saxonia, aboard whose ship it was suspected Frank Holt might have placed the "dynamite trunk" he declared he placed aboard a liner leaving this port, wireless the Cunard company this afternoon as follows:

"Search made. Nothing found."

The message was in response to the wireless warning sent Captain Diggle asking him to examine every bit of baggage in search of any trunk that might contain Holt's explosives.

TURKISH FLEET ATTACKS ALLIES FOR FIRST TIME

Sea Forces of Sultan Engage Enemy in Attempt to Drive Them Into the Sea

PARIS, July 7.—For the first time since the Dardanelles operations began the Turkish fleet has participated in a violent assault on the allied land forces in an attempt to hurl the expeditionary troops into the sea.

An official statement from the war office this afternoon reported the Turks opened a general attack against the allies, Monday afternoon. Turkish battleships steamed into the strait and shelled the allied lines for several hours.

The Turkish forts on the Asiatic side of the strait joined in the bombardment, hurling shells across the strait. A flotilla of Turkish and German aviators flew over the southern tip of Gallipoli peninsula showering bombs on the French and English trenches.

The artillery attack began at 4 p. m. Toward dusk, enemy infantry moved along the southern shore of Gallipoli and attempted to attack the Anglo-French positions in the rear. From strong positions on the cliffs, French field guns poured down a frightful fire upon the advancing Turks, who retreated.

POSITIVELY IDENTIFY HOLT AS MUENTER THE SLAYER OF HIS WIFE

Wife Poisoned That Husband Might See Flight of Her Soul

Death of "Frank Holt" after his identification as Erich Muentner, Harvard professor who disappeared after his wife had died under suspicious circumstances, recalls the unusual story which was unraveled in April, 1906, when Mrs. Muentner's death was investigated. Muentner was widely believed to have slowly poisoned his wife after her second baby was born, from a mad desire in his disordered mind to see her soul take flight from her body in "astral form."

The death was preceded by such queer conduct on the part of Muentner that one physician refused to have anything to do with the case. He declared that Muentner refused to give his wife any medicine prescribed. He insisted on preparing with his own hands any nourishment given to the patient.

On April 9 a nurse in attendance noticed symptoms of arsenical poisoning, and a few days thereafter Mrs. Muentner died in great agony. There was trouble about the death certificate and the medical examiner removed the stomach for examination at an autopsy. In the meantime Muentner took the body to Chicago, Mrs. Muentner's home.

There, before the funeral, her family demanded some explanation of her death. Muentner pleaded a nervous strain for a delay in the explanation, left the house ostensibly to visit a friend, and never returned. He was traced to New Orleans, where he published and sent out a pamphlet attacking the actions of his brothers-in-law in the case, and then disappeared completely.

CHICAGO BATHERS TO BE HAMPERED BY STRICT RULES

CHICAGO, July 7.—There'll be mighty few interesting days on Chicago's beaches during the still-on-its-way hot spell, if revised rules of the beach censors, announced today are rigidly enforced. Here are some of the rules for 1915:

Neither male or female bathers may lie on their backs on the sand. No one piece bathing suits for men or women.

Female bathers must wear stockings. No male person shall lie with head in the lap of a woman companion—and vice versa.

Skirts must fall to within at least three inches of the knee.

THREE WITNESSES AGREE THAT HE IS MISSING UXORCIDE

Prof. Chester Nathan Gould Recognized Muentner Last November but Kept Silent

CAMBRIDGE POLICE VERIFIES IT

Officer Produces Bertillon Measurements and Man Who Roomed Nearby Corroborates It

MINEOLA, L. I., July 7.—The body of Frank Holt was today identified positively as that of Erich Muentner, the missing Harvard wife murderer, by two Cambridge witnesses, S. T. Smith, state police officer of Massachusetts, and T. W. Hillier, who lived in the same house with Muentner for nine months.

Smith took the Bertillon measurements of the body. They tallied exactly with those of Muentner. He was further identified by means of a gold tooth filling, which was one of Mr. Muentner's distinguishing marks.

Knew It Last November

CHICAGO, July 7.—Chester Nathan Gould, assistant professor of German and Scandinavian literature at the University of Chicago, today positively identified Frank Holt, who shot J. P. Morgan, as Erich Muentner, who disappeared from Cambridge following the poisoning of his wife while he was a member of the Harvard faculty in 1906. Prof. Gould was intimately acquainted with Mr. Muentner when the latter was teaching in the Harvard school here.

"There is no doubt that Frank Holt was Erich Muentner," asserted Prof. Gould today. "I first met 'Frank Holt' in the German instructor's office at Cornell university last November. I paid little attention to him at first. We were together only a few moments. As I left he asked me how Cutting and Allen were getting on. (It was explained that Cutting and Allen are professors W. Star Cutting and Phillip S. Allen, both of whom knew Muentner.) Holt told me he did not know Cutting and Allen, but had heard of them."

"Later while talking with some of the Cornell professors, I asked about several I had met, including Holt. Dr. A. Leroy Andrews, in whose home the conversation occurred, said Holt was peculiar and hard to understand. I said Holt's peculiar carriage and manner of speech reminded me of some one. Then it flashed over me it was Muentner. A few days later I met him face to face and alone. He said, looking straight at me, 'Hello Gould.'"

Doubly Sure

"I must have shown by my agitation that I recognized him, but he paid no attention. Several times he sought me out to talk with me on subjects that were obviously trumped up merely for the purpose of letting me see him. The more I saw of him the more reason I had to know I had made no mistake in his identity."

"At first I felt nervous. I feel now, however, that in his state of paranoiacal exaltation, he had entire confidence in his incognito."

"I decided for several reasons not to expose him. He appeared to be making an effort to start life anew. There was never any evidence that he had poisoned his first wife. He had another wife and two children living. This put a very grave responsibility upon me. Everything I knew about Muentner was good except the unproven hint, that he had poisoned his first wife."

"DRYS" ENTRENCH FOR THEIR ANNUAL ATTACK ON LIQUOR

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.—The "drys" are entrenching for their annual bombardment of demon rum.

COCOANUT OIL FINE FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulified coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

The forces now assembled total nearly 10,000. A couple of thousand more are expected in during the day.

This year the "drys"—known as the anti-saloon league of America—have such noted fighters in their ranks as John L. Sullivan and General Nelson A. Miles. John L. goes to the firing line Friday night. Having renounced demon rum as an ally the ex-champion is expected, with his inside knowledge, to hand him a knockout.

General Miles will act as chairman at one of the meetings.

CHICAGO YEGGS GET BIG HOLIDAY HAUL

CHICAGO, July 7.—Ten thousand dollars was the booty taken from the offices of Midway & Sons, Chicago's big south side amusement park, early today by four masked bandits who blew the safe after overpowering two watchmen.

The yeggs timed their robbery after awo and a half days' holiday crowds had given the watchmen a bigger treasure to guard than any time previously this year. Receipts Sunday and yesterday had been particularly large.

Nitro-glycerine, in a quantity that jarred windows and broke some for several blocks in the vicinity of the gardens, was the explosive used. The offices were wrecked.

Even the photographer can't make some people look pleasant.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

HER MYSTERIOUS LOVER

BY HARMONY WELLER

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Mrs. Browning read the advertisement in the board and apartments wanted column she turned to her daughter Isabel.

"How would you like to board these six young men who are looking for just such a place as this?" She passed the paper to the daughter, who had flushed excitedly at the thought of six young men in the house during an entire summer.

Isabel read the advertisement aloud as if her mother had not already perused its contents.

"Wanted, by six city men, room and board for summer months. Must be near sea bathing. Plain cooking and home comforts. Fifty dollars a week for the half dozen."

The girl laughed amusedly. "One would think they were new-laid eggs rather than twentieth-century young men. I think it would be a great lark to have them," she said finally, "and perhaps I could give up my shop work for the summer and just stay home to help you. We could manage nicely on $50 a week, with the vegetables from our garden and our own fresh eggs."

"Let's sit right down then and answer them or some one else may get them as boarders," Mrs. Browning said in her usual energetic manner.

She had never taken boarders to help eke out their rather limited income, but recently she had noted with motherly apprehension that her daughter's cheeks had been gradually losing color and that her step was weary as she made her way homeward from the day's business.

Mrs. Browning felt convinced that she could make enough money at least for one summer by taking in the six young men as boarders, and it would assuredly be a diversion for the too quiet Isabel. So three rooms, with great double beds, were aired and freshened up, the unused tennis court was rolled and all the possibilities for summer pleasure were made attractive. A new hammock was hung from the pear tree and quick-growing vines were planted around the summer house.

"They can't resist us," Mrs. Browning told herself, and in her heart she cherished the hope that Isabel would be in somewhere in the background as an added attraction.

FRENCH OFFICIALS AT DIAZ FUNERAL

Body of Former Mexican President Interred Temporarily in St. Honore d'Eylan

PARIS, July 7.—Representatives of the French government and attaches of several embassies attended the funeral today of General Porfirio Diaz, former dictator of Mexico. The body was placed in a vault in the church of St. Honore d'Eylan and will be interred in a Paris cemetery.

when the young men came down to inspect the premises.

Isabel was not at home, however, when the young men came, but Mrs. Browning saw to it that, Isabel or no Isabel, she was going to have her six summer boarders.

The men were completely delighted with their new abiding place. Everything seemed so comfortable and homelike, they declared. When, the first night at dinner, Isabel came into the dining room looking like nothing so much as a newly blossomed pink rose, the six men exchanged swift glances.

"Joy!" "Peach!" "Rose in the bud!" "Some girl!" Those were only some of the quickly inspired comments that were exchanged in prudent asides and expressive facial accompaniments.

The girl herself found it rather difficult to seem perfectly calm in the trying situation of finding herself suddenly the center of admiration of six pairs of masculine eyes. Her heart quickened beneath her pink gown, and her cheeks were delightfully responsive to her emotions.

From the moment her daughter entered the dining room and was presented in turn to the six men Isabel's mother felt to wondering just how the experiment was likely to turn out. Would it, she speculated, in any way interfere with the girl's evident preference for the companionship of Donald Stewart, a fine looking young Scotchman who had been paying her considerable attention? For some time Mrs. Browning had half suspected Isabel's pale cheeks and lusterless eyes were connected with a growing attachment for Stewart, who had not yet advanced beyond the non-committal stage of friendly interest.

The first week-end that Donald spent out at the Browning cottage after the arrival of the male boarders was a trifle trying, since he passed most of the time glowering darkly at Isabel's efforts to be cheerful or in talking with her mother. Isabel had tried vainly to make him one of the joy-seeking crowd that went for a swim in the afternoon and for a long ramble through the woods toward evening. Donald held himself stubbornly aloof and, with greatly modified happiness, Isabel plunged desperately into the fun of the moment.

The summer progressed steadily, with delightful days and wonderful nights. The six boarders vied with each other in taking Isabel to yacht races, dances and matinees in the city. To all appearance each man of them was falling a willing victim to her charms.

Now, to add to the mystery and romance of the situation, some one of Isabel's admirers—she knew not which—assumed a stealthy, anonymous manner of wooing that, for her, was as charming as it was bewildering. Every morning she found at her door, hidden in a bunch of roses, a note bearing a declaration of love in such frankly expressed terms that she could not doubt the sincerity of the unknown sender. There was never a hint as to who came thus by stealth to her door and left the token of love.

The girl spent many a long hour in trying to find out the identity of her secret wooer, but without coming a step nearer the solution of the puzzle. Unconsciously she was falling a victim to her stealthy lover's tactics. Try as she might, she could not exercise the spell.

Mrs. Browning seemed to be as puzzled as she was herself, although Isabel at times had indulged in the suspicion that her mother was in some way an accomplice in the mysterious affair. For a brief and glorious moment, also, Isabel suspected Donald Stewart, but her next meeting with him in town disabused her mind of the idea. The Scotchman had seemed even more gloomily reserved than usual, and Isabel returned home after luncheon and a matinee with him in a more or less depressed state of mind.

She determined to see no more of Stewart. Mrs. Browning had been quite right in her surmise. Had Isabel possessed less common sense than was her fortunate endowment she would have made herself unutterably wretched for love of Donald Stewart.

As it was, however, her anonymous love affair served to lighten her depression and also to prevent her from forming a deep attachment for any of her ardent admirers.

One morning Isabel discovered in the heart of her bouquet of deep red roses a box containing an exquisite solitaire ring. She almost flew to her mother's room, her cheeks crimson and her eyes starry.

"Mother," she cried breathlessly holding the jewel aloft, "my stealthy lover asks me to wear this ring and thus proclaim my engagement to him! What shall I do?"

She laughed a trifle hysterically, for her heart was prompting her to slip the ring on her finger and to wear it boldly for the whole world to see.

"I think I should wear his ring, dearie," the mother suggested softly, kissing her daughter's flushed cheeks. "It may be the only way to make him reveal himself in the flesh—now that he seems to have won you in the spirit."

"He writes that he will—he will—"

The design is new and when finished the garment will make a pleasing addition to your wardrobe.

As a present this piece is sure to meet with a lavish and sincere appreciation on the part of the recipient. The delicacy that the handwork imparts to the garment cannot be equaled in the usual slip-over corset cover yokes one generally sees in the shops.

For those who love fine undergarments and who take pleasure in creating artistic work, I heartily recommend this pattern—it is neither difficult nor tiresome and will progress very rapidly.

Directions.

To make this corset cover yoke begin at the left hand side of illustration and chain 55 stitches—the first row should be made of solid meshes. The design really commences in the second row—carefully counting the stitches follow the pattern to the underarm—continue underarm to make required size. The back must be worked the same as the front. The straps over the shoulders are fashioned by following the pattern.

Irrespective of the pleasure you get from crocheting, you desire that your work last, that it be enduring and capable of rendering lasting satisfaction.

To safeguard yourself be most particular concerning the crocheted cotton you use. It is always well to buy an advertised brand. Such are generally more dependable than those of unknown reputation.

In making the illustrated crocheted slip-over corset cover yoke, use a number 8 steel crocheted hook. You will also require two balls of No. 20 mercerized klostertilk crocheted cotton.

If you meet with any difficulty, send me, care of this newspaper, a self addressed stamped envelope and a story of your troubles. I will try to help you and I feel sure that between the two of us we can make a really attractive crocheted slip-over corset cover yoke.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Pony That Knew Just What to Do.

"ANIMALS know more than some people realize," said daddy. "I had almost said that they know more than some people know. But animals cannot talk, so they have to show their knowledge in other ways."

"I will tell you a little story about a pony, which proves what I have said."

"This was a very pretty little pony, with dappled spots, just the nicest, fattest, most comely pony for a little boy to ride that you ever saw. He belonged to a little boy named Roy."

"The pony could gallop and trot and canter and lope and had all the gait which a well trained pony should have, for he had been well broken before Roy's daddy bought him for him, and Roy, who was about seven years old, grew to be a very expert rider."

"It was a pleasing sight to see the little boy start off on a ride with his pony—or, rather, on his pony's back. He sat very gracefully in his saddle and he held the bridle just right, and everybody who saw them admired them."

"I think the pony enjoyed it as much as Roy did. He liked to trot and amble and canter along the smooth roads, past the green woods and in the brilliant sunshine, and he and his little master loved each other very much. The pony, whose name was Tobias, would eat lumps of sugar out of Roy's hand, and Roy would pet him and be glad that he owned him."

"At last, upon a brilliant summer day, Roy rode Tobias out of the stable one afternoon for a delightful canter down by the road which led to a beautiful lake. It was awfully warm that day, but Roy did not mind this at first. Soon, however, he noticed that the sides of Tobias were all wet with perspiration."

"So Roy pulled Tobias to a walk so he wouldn't feel quite so warm. But after a little time Roy got to feeling rather queer himself. He felt dizzy, and his stomach felt sick, and all of a sudden he just slid down out of the saddle, his feet luckily leaving the stirrups all right and lay limp and still on the road."

"Tobias sniffed around for awhile, and then he turned and trotted home, and he neighed and whinnied and trotted back and forth until Roy's daddy got on his back and went down the road and found the little boy, who had had a sunstroke."

"He was all right again in a day or two, and he declares, and so do his parents, that Tobias just knew something was the matter with Roy and ran home to tell his parents about it, and Tobias was much petted after that, you had better believe."

"BOB" ROBERTSON MAY SERVE UNITED PRESSRecently the TRIBUNE published a letter from H. B. (Bob) Robertson, formerly its city editor, now a resident of Rio de Janeiro, in which Mr.
Robertson charged the newspapers of the United States with responsibility for lack of understanding and paucity of trade between the United States and South America. He asserted that although there are in the Latin republics great cities and thriving states, the average daily in this country carries hardly a line of South American news.We sent a copy of Mr. Robertson's paper to the office of the Pan-American Union, Washington, one to Congressman John J. Esch and a third to the United Press association, the great news agency that serves the TRIBUNE.The officers of the Pan-American union were interested and accompanying their reply thanking us for the communication were a score of pamphlets which the Union has disseminated. These pamphlets bore out Mr. Robertson's assertion, by their very existence, for they contained matter in relation to the South American republics with which our newspapers should have made their readers familiar.Congressman Esch responded by mailing us a page from the Christian Science Monitor. The page was devoted to news and educational matter from South America. Valparaiso, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Ayres, Balboa, Paramaribo, Colon, Lima, Santiago and Montevideo were among the date lines over the stories. If every American newspaperwould do ten per cent of what this truly enterprising Boston journal is doing in the way of South American correspondence, the mutual problem of South and North America would soon be solved.Still more interesting, from a local standpoint, was the reply of the United Press. It was to the effect that the South American staff of the company was being extended and strengthened, and it contained the request that if it were possible that Mr. Robertson would be willing to become the Rio de Janeiro correspondent of the United Press, or even if he might consent to write special articles, to please forward his address at once. This was done, and a week later we were informed that the United Press had written Mr. Robertson offering him a position as either staff or special correspondent.We shall be glad to share with other newspapers who use the United Press service the letters with which "Bob" Robertson has been contributing to the enjoyment of our readers. They are too able, too interesting to be monopolized, and in the new situation we shall enjoy the speedier service of the cables which, alone, we could not afford.NEARING CASE NEARER TO USIn connection with the indictment of Governor Philipp's central board of education bill, one objectionable feature of which is its potentiality as a club over academic freedom in the university, we mentioned the removal of Prof. Scott Nearing from the University of Pennsylvania "for socialistic teachings." What he taught was not socialism, but a sort of business humanity. The inference has been drawn that Prof. Nearing was removed through the direct influence of public utility people, and that in some way the fact that Pennsylvania's college of Finance and Commerce was the gift of the late Joseph Wharton and dependent upon his estate made the thing possible.Now, however, comes Harrison S.
Morris, one of the Wharton executors, and charges the affair to the influence of politicians. Mr. Morris says:The University of Pennsylvania is not a free agent. It is supported by great sums appropriated by our corrupt legislatures, and it must obey their wishes, which are equivalent to the demands of the great corporations. My belief is that all the right-minded citizens of the state would rally to the support of the university if it would free itself from an alliance with Penrose, Vane and McNichol, which controls its judgment in a crisis like this when freedom of speech is at stake.This brings the case still nearer home. The University of Wisconsin has no legacy of obligation to a Wharton, but this state has its Pen-roses and Vares and McNichols. And what Mr. Morris says not only goes to the danger that rests in a political board such as the pending bill would create, but takes us back to that half-brother measure repealing the three-eighths mill tax which supports the university. Repeal that, and the university will indeed be dependent upon the Penroses so far as they can influence the legislature.Forward looking states give their universities, not a three-eighths mill tax, but ONE MILL tax for their independent support. Among them are Michigan, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, Kentucky and Indiana.Put the university into the hands of a political board and take away the independence which its threeeighths mill tax affords, and we'll soon get rid of our Scott Nearings.Taking No Chances
The small boy had quarreled violently with his little neighbor across the street. His aunt told him that he must go to his little friend's house, kiss him and say that he was sorry.
The youthful belligerent demurred.
"You go kiss him, auntie," he said;
"I might bite him."Quips and Cranks and Wanton WilesWhat Matters It?
What matters it that all the skies were dark,
And black the night, and tense?
With morning came the singing of the lark
And joy for recompense!
What matters it that ever, day by day,
Up rugged slopes we fare?
Do not Love's roses blossom by the way
And sweeten all the air?Life's pathway is a tollsome one, I know,
Thick-strewn with many a thorn;
But oh, the joyance of the noontide glow
And rosy smile of morn!
Full oft the footsteps falter in the road
And slacken near the goal,
But one clear bird song seems to lift the head
And cheer the fainting soul.And so what boots it though the skies are dark,
And black the night, and tense,
Since morning brings the singing of the lark
And joy for recompense?
One day of golden summer amply pays
For winter's storm and sting;
One brief hour of pleasure well outweighs Long weeks of sorrowing!

"Now," said the doctor, "you take this medicine just as I told you, and you will sleep like a baby."
The patient surveyed the medicine doubtfully. "Well, doctor," he said,
"if you mean like our baby I guess I won't take it."Well? Why Shouldn't It Mean That?
"Are you unmarried?" inquired the census man.
"Oh, dear, no," said the little lady,

"you want five hundred dollars for a

On Head for Two Years. Itching and 1016 McKee St., Fort Wayne, Ind.—"My child, six years of age, suffered for about two years with an itching and burning on her head right behind the ear. It was just very small when first noticed and kept spreading until it got way up above her ear. I had to keep her from school at times it got so sore. It caused her pain for it itched and burned so badly that she scratched and irritated it all the time. It spread and spread until it was a good bit bigger than a silver dollar.

It made her ear stick to her head and I could not pull it away without her crying.
"I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, washed the sore place with the

INSURANCEA COMEDY ROMANCE
By Earl Derr Biggers Author of Seven Keys To Baldpate.
Copyrighted The Bobbs-Merrill Co."Lord Harrowby," said Minot, trying to keep the excitement from his voice, "I have certain information about one of the guests here this evening that I believe would interest you. Your lordship has been badly buffaloeed. One of our fellow diners at Mrs. Bruce's table holds the title of the ablest jewel thief in America!"
He watched keenly to catch Lord Harrowby's start of surprise. Also he caught nothing of the sort.
"Nonsense," said his lordship nonchalantly. "You mustn't let your imagination carry you away, dear chap.""Imagination nothing! I know what I'm talking about." And then Minot added sarcastically: "Sorry to bore you with this."
His lordship laughed.
"Right-o, old fellow, I'm not interested."
"But haven't you just lost?"
"A diamond necklace? Yes." They had reached a particularly dark and secluded spot beneath the canopy of palm leaves. Harrowby turned suddenly and put his hands on Minot's shoulders. "Mr. Minot," he said,
"you are here to see that nothing interferes with my marriage to Miss Meyrick. I trust you are determined to do your duty to your employer?"
"Absolutely. That is why—""Then," replied Harrowby quickly, "I am going to ask you to take charge of this for me."
Suddenly Minot felt something cold and glassy in his hand. Startled, he looked down. Even in the dark, Chain Lightning's Collar
sparkled like the famous toy that it was."Your lordship!"
"I can not explain now. I can only tell you it is quite necessary that you help me at this time if you wish to do your full duty by Mr. Jephson.""Who took this necklace from Miss Meyrick's hair?" asked Minot hotly.
"I did. I assure you it was the only way to prevent our plans from going awry. Please keep it until I ask you for it."And turning, Lord Harrowby walked rapidly toward the house.
"The brute!" angrily Mr. Minot stood turning the necklace over in his hand. "So he frightened the girl he is to marry—the girl he is supposed to love—"What should he do? Go to her and tell her of Harrowby's amiable eccentricities? He could hardly do that—Harrowby had taken him into his confidence—and besides there was Jephson of the great bald head, the Peter Pan eyes. Nothing to do but wait.Returning to the hotel from Mrs.
Bruce's villa, he found awaiting him a cable from Jephson. The cable assured him that beyond any question the man in San Marco was Allan Harrowby and, like Caesar's wife above suspicion.Yet even as he read, Lord Harrow-by walked through the lobby, and at his side was Mr. James O'Malley, house detective of the Hotel de la Pax. They came from the manager's office, where they had evidently been closeted.With the cablegram in his hand, Minot entered the elevator and ascended to his room. The other hand was in the pocket of his top coat, closed tightly upon Chain Light-ning's Collar—the bauble that the Lord of Raybrock had once wagered against a kiss.

CHAPTER VIII.

After the Trained Seals.
Mr. Minot opened his eyes on Thursday morning with the uncomfortable feeling that he was far from his beloved New York. For a moment he lay dazed, wondering in that dim borderland between sleep and waking. Then, suddenly, he remembered."Oh, yes, by jove," he muttered.
"I've been knighted. Groom of the Back-Stairs Scandals and Keeper of the Royal Jewels—that's me."He lifted his pillow. There on the white sheet sparkled the necklace of which the whole British nobility was proud—Chain Lightning's Collar.

HERE'S 'M'CARTHY OF WISCONSIN'

Sir Horace Plunkett Tells a Dublin Audience About a Wisconsin Man Some Would "Fire."

TELLS OF UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

Work of Reference Library Is Also Discussed and Notable Audience Applauds the Address

The most popular and the most unpopular man in Madison is one Dr. Charles McCarthy, head of the Wisconsin reference library. He is so unpopular that he has the backing of neither party nor faction, and so popular that he can not be "fired" even under the pressure of a platform pledge made by a victorious party.

Dr. McCarthy's unpopularity is due to the fact that he has no party and no faction. If a man asks his aid in the formulation of a law, he does not inquire about the man's political faith. He simply bends his mind to making the law the best law of the kind that can be drawn, and he does this even though he may not personally approve of the law. This fact, that he receives and works with men of all parties and factions upon an even basis, has deprived him of the partisan support of any party or faction.

But the very thing that has deprived Dr. McCarthy of party or factional popularity has won him personal popularity in all factions. To know that here is a man who will deal honestly with them, who will permit his personal feelings to affect the quality of his service, has made the doctor strong with all legislatures.

The thing that has made Dr. McCarthy "undesirable" to big interests which in various ways seek to rule legislatures has cost him nothing with individual legislators. That thing is his insistence that the laws that pass through his hands shall mean what they assume to mean. He is the searching, deadly foe of the legislative "joker."

In Wisconsin we go serenely about our privilege of profiting by university extension, continuation schools and all that class of educational mediums which have opened doors to a new route by which those in our lower financial strata can find their way to knowledge and efficiency, without the knowledge, or consciousness, of the fact that Dr. Charles McCarthy gave them to us, and to civilization. To civilization, because wherever democracy is afoot they are being copied.

But the prophet is not without honor afar, evidence a lecture which Sir Horace Plunkett, P. C., K. C., V. O., recently delivered before the National Library society of Ireland. "McCarthy of Wisconsin" was the subject, and the lecture as reviewed by "The Irish Times," Dublin, follows:

The Right Hon. Dr. Cox, who presided, said Sir Horace Plunkett needed no introduction to any literary or other society in Ireland, so that they would be sure of a charming and interesting lecture.

Sir Horace Plunkett said his subject was the career of a remarkable Irishman in the United States, and its special interest to Ireland was the light it throws on one of the most searching questions people were asking about Irishmen, John, the father of Charles McCarthy, the hero of the present sketch, came from the hilly country on the borders of Cork and Kerry, and his mother, Katherine O'Shea, came from the same district, her family having been exiled after the famine. John McCarthy and his wife both worked in a boot factory in Brockton, Mass. Three children were born, but Charles alone survived the unsanitary conditions of the crowded community in which he spent his early years, and at the age of fourteen he left and ran away from home. The boy knew that the schooling he had had would not take him far, but he was confident that he could earn a surplus above a bare subsistence for further education. He accepted any kind of employment which offered a decent wage; he worked around docks, in factories, on the land. His first rise in life was when he got a job at scene shifting in a theater. From this he advanced to scene painting, and ultimately to theater management. A well paid job at a theater in Providence, R. I., enabled the truant boy to attend lectures at the Brown university, where he met John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and this strangely assorted pair have remained fast friends ever since. At his first university the boy distinguished himself in athletics, for which he had a full Irish taste and aptitude, and was given a cup as the best all-round football man. Economics and political science, with the necessary grounding in modern languages, were his subjects of study. He was made a special student in recognition of his fine educational zeal.

American Politics and Jurisprudence. Having dealt with the further university career of Mr. McCarthy, and the part he played in the Spanish-American war, the lecturer said that, specializing in comparative law and jurisprudence, McCarthy managed to win a prize awarded annually by the American Historical society for the best manuscript in American history, and the University of Wisconsin conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. While he was at the university he was constantly at the capitol, especially when the legislature was in session. In all his study of political science he kept a critical eye upon the legislation and the administration in process nearby, and prepared himself for his future work of training the young men of the state for the higher duties of citizenship.

Encouragement of Agriculture. Having dealt with life, business and education of the state of Wisconsin, Sir Horace Plunkett said: The constitution of Wisconsin in its main lines was of the usual North American pattern. But the distinctive feature of its government—and it is this peculiarity which gave to Dr. McCarthy the opportunity of his life—is its relationship with the state university, which is financed chiefly by the legislature, and is governed by a board of regents appointed by the governor. Nearly all the agricultural functions of government are discharged by the agricultural college attached to the university. It may be due to this fact that the agricultural policy of Wisconsin is world-famed. At any rate you will understand why, when I was chiefly responsible for setting to work our department of agriculture and technical instruction, I had to go to Madison and see for myself what Ireland could learn from the most advanced thinkers upon rural economics in the western hemisphere. In regard to constructive legislation in the state of Wisconsin, the chief place must be given to the measures taken for "aiding and developing agriculture," to use the term describing a principal function of our own development commission. It may safely be said that the most numerous body of Wisconsin's workers are now well served by the state.

McCarthy's Principal Achievements. He came now to the two principal achievements of Dr. McCarthy in the public life of Wisconsin. He was the chief builder of the university extension system, which is now imitated in many other states. Its distinguishing feature is the democratic recognition that those to whom the university would have to go were as important as those whose circumstances enabled them to go to the university. Instead of getting tired professors to give up a part of their holiday to a few sporadic lectures, a sum of $125,000 (25,000 pounds) is provided to enable the very best men

REPORT OF ARRIVAL AT DARDANELLES OF 'U'S' ALARMS ALLIES

Seven Great German Submarines Reported at the Dardanelles According to Athens

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., July 7.—Anglo-French naval circles are greatly alarmed at the report that seven great German submarines have arrived at the Dardanelles, an Athens dispatch declared today. The Athens correspondent wired that if the report were true the U boats would force the warships to cease their operations close along the shore of Gallipoli peninsula and leave the allied land forces without support from the battle fleet's heavy guns.

Transport Sunk. BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., July 7.—A German submarine sank a large French transport near the entrance to the Dardanelles last Sunday morning, according to official dispatches from Constantinople.

bers of the faculties to pay regular visits to selected centers where help in such subjects as engineering, mathematics, drawing, business administration and even languages would improve the industrial outlook and brighten the lives of mostly rural communities. Further, these scattered peoples were brought into touch with the state center of thought through an elaborate system of correspondence. The next greatest achievement of Dr. McCarthy is much better known. His government employment was in the free library commission in the capitol. While he was at work there legislators and administrators were constantly coming to him for information needed to enable them to give effect to their ideas or to discharge their duties. This experience convinced him that a library which specialized in legislation and administration, actually attached to the center of government, would fulfill a real and urgent need. Dr. McCarthy now occupies the position of librarian to the legislative reference library—the creation of his own brain.

Sir Horace Plunkett and America. Having quoted Sir Courtney Albert's opinion of the library, the lecturer proceeded to take a more general view of the work and aims of this remarkable Irish-American. This necessitates, he said, some personal details, if only to explain how I came to know so much about him, and the point of view from which I commend his work and aims to your attention. For five-and-thirty years I have been in constant touch with American life and a close and sympathetic observer of my countrymen's share in it. To me the Irish question in its material aspects is mainly the problem of rural civilization. In these days of urban predominance, the prosperity of by far the greater part of the United States likewise depends, it seems to me, upon the ability of the largest part of the population and the most important industry of the country to obtain their due share in the general progress. Mr. Roosevelt was the first president in my time to be genuinely interested in agricultural affairs. In his second term he launched the movement for the conservation of the natural resources of the United States, which were being recklessly squandered by capitalist enterprise. To the thought which he provided it soon became clear that the fertility of the soil was the most important thing to conserve, and this required an all-round reconsideration of rural conditions. So Mr. Roosevelt formulated a country-life policy, much of which he generously acknowledged he owed to Irish thought. Dr. McCarthy and I each had the honor of being consulted at various times by the president and some of his ministers in regard to these twin Roosevelt policies of conservation and country life.

America and Co-operation. Mr. McCarthy's political work has not been confined to his own state. He was deeply interested in some aspects of the progressive party's policy at the last election, and had a good deal to do with the making up of the platform. He has served on federal commissions, and has been consulted by more than one president. His name and his work are known by economists, sociologists and political thinkers in every state in the union. I have already intimated that Dr. McCarthy is beginning to concentrate upon the chief practical question of Wisconsin, as it is of Ireland. It is natural that, with so many Germans and Scandinavians in the state, he should be a thorough-going co-operator, and I have had the privilege of assisting him to draft the co-operative law (which answers to our industrial and provident societies and friendly societies acts) for his state. The Irish idea of rural reconstruction is just now making more headway in the United States than in Ireland, and recently a few public spirited Americans from several states have formed an American agricultural organization society on the Irish model. I learned with great satisfaction that they are determined to secure, if they can, Dr. McCarthy's services as its director. Irishmen's Achievements Abroad. The achievement of Irishmen abroad is now of insignificant importance compared with their conduct at home. What seems to me to lend special significance to the thought and action of Charles McCarthy is that his whole success is obviously due not to the institutions to which he was born, for these were radically inimical to his whole scheme of reform, but to the courage, directness and independence of his character. With this moral equipment he rose above all traditions and prejudices, scorned all considerations of personal interest, and went straight for the end of righteousness, which, after a wide survey, he found to be attainable in the state of Wisconsin. Some who would serve Ireland as he has served Wisconsin will ask themselves what chance would McCarthy have had of any similar achievement had he been born in Ireland instead of Massachusetts. I suppose among the hills from which his parents came he would have dreamed dreams, and would have had to struggle against the obsession of that awful past which our people seem to think must be undone before we may be permitted to face the present and build the future. But where would he have stood upon the world war? Would he have joined Sir Roger Casement, the last wild goose who has been cackling to the Kaiser in Berlin? For my part, I feel he was so right Irish that wild horses could not have kept him from the great fight or dragged him into a miserable civil conflict. (Applause).

The Pains of Sciatica

Dr. E. C. Underwood says that there is no expression of neuralgia which is more distressing than that known as Sciatica. The cause of this condition is usually exposure to cold and dampness. One of the most common causes is rheumatism; indeed this is so often the cause that some writers include sciatica among the varieties of rheumatism. The treatment includes remedies to counteract the cause of the disease, as well as measures looking to the relief of pain. Whatever treatment may be employed, the things must be borne in mind—the patient must be kept as free from pain as possible and be kept as quiet as possible. One or two Aspirin Tablets should be given every two or three hours, and the patient must be warned against going out in inclement weather. Anti-Kamnia Tablets may be obtained at all druggists in any quantity, 10c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets. In Headaches, Neuralgias, and all Pains, they give prompt relief.

Stomach Trouble Solved

Most stomach troubles are not diseases. The stomach is simply weak. Tired out. The right kind of a tonic is what is needed. A few meals, well digested, will furnish natural strength. That is what a tonic will do for you. It will start the stomach going right. Then the stomach will take care of itself.

PE-RU-NA

Good the Year 'Round

Always Ready-to-Take

There is no use of writing a new prescription every time a remedy is needed for a weak stomach. No use whatever. The old, well-tried remedies, put up on purpose for such cases, are a great deal better than an off-hand prescription. Peru-na is the remedy that people have relied upon for a great many years. It is ready to take, composed of pure drugs, of uniform strength and composition. Not an experiment. Peru-na is a substantial household remedy, with forty years of splendid history behind it. In buying Peru-na you take no risk. You know what you are getting.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1914) was the following:

"It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pre-tuberculosis stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to lime loss, the success of Eckman's Alternative in its treatment may be due, in part, to its content of a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Always we have urged consumptives to attend strictly to matters of food, but often some effective remedial agent is needed. In many cases of apparent recovery Eckman's Alternative seems to have supplied this need. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try.

Matrimonial Expert Sues Milwaukee Road for Mile Hike of His Company Through Iowa Snow Drifts Near Here

Trainmen on the Dubuque division of the Milwaukee railroad, including Conductor C. M. Merwin, are awaiting with considerable interest the outcome of the suit against the road, brought by Nat Goodwin, on trial today in Milwaukee, a suit in which the famous exponent of matrimony and leading sartorial wonder of the world figures as the leader of a footsore and weary band of thespians who hiked a mile through snow drifts in the wilds of Iowa, eighteen miles from Dubuque, December 28, 1914.

Mr. Merwin was in charge of a train conveying the actor and his troupe from Red Wing to Dubuque, but he has not been subpoenaed as a witness.

The train, in charge of Conductor Merwin, became stalled in drifts. Goodwin alleges that he suffered damages to the extent of $2,000, $1,500 for cancelling an engagement at Dubuque and $500 for a cold incurred in walking a distance of a mile through a foot of snow.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC DEADLY FOE OF MAN SAYS DRY SPEAKER

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 7.—The legalized liquor traffic is killing men in the United States at the rate of 2,000 a day, according to Rev. A. W. Leonard, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Seattle, Wash. Addressing delegates to the Anti-Saloon League of America convention today he added that the liquor death rate for the world is 3,500,000 a year.

"The liquor traffic is a greater foe to this world than any plague or epidemic of which the race of man has knowledge," he declared. "It is man's greatest and deadliest foe."

Rev. Leonard told in detail of the northwest's fight against liquor.

"Prohibition did not come suddenly to that northwest commonwealth," he said. "It came first as the result of years of education, and second as the result of aggressive but sane temperance legislation."

BANKERS MEET WITH FARMERS AT CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, July 7.—Speeches by banker, professor and agriculturist featured the opening session of the banker-farmer conference at the La Salle hotel here today. Hundreds were in attendance. The conference, which will continue through tomorrow, was called to bring about closer relations between the man who cultivates the crop and the banker whose credits make their cultivation possible.

"Agriculture is our greatest bulwark," said B. F. Harris of Champaign, Ill., chairman of the agricultural commission of the American Bankers' association. "Agriculture is an anchor to the windward. The throbbing heart of American prosperity and national life lies in the growing crops—in the keeping of our farmers."

He said the bankers' association was in sympathy with the man that tilled the soil and was perfecting a system of better credit systems.

CHICAGO BANDITS CONTINUE HAULS

CHICAGO, July 7.—Chicago's auto-bandit quartet added two women pals to their crew last night and early today brought their stick-up record to more than forty for the past five months. Shortly after midnight the four men and two women went to Fred Craft's Twenty-second street saloon and ordered drinks. When asked to pay they produced revolvers, women and all, while the leader said: "We pay for nothing. Hand over your cash." The barkeeper complied.

Between the saloon door and their big car, which stood purring at the curb, the robbers stopped long enough to rob a pedestrian of $30. Then they sped to Chris Lilliana's saloon in West Adams street, where they collected $30 more tribute. Frustrated in efforts to rob F. A. Cherney, another pedestrian, they stopped at West Twenty-second and Springfield streets, where they held up Night Watchman Foran for a small sum.

None of the victims could give a good description of the men and women.

ITALIAN PRINCE TAKES TO FLYING

Son of Duke d'Aosta Becomes Fast Friend with American Aviator in Italy

BY ALICE ROHE
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, July 7.—The sixteen-year-old Prince Amedeo, whose father, Duke d'Aosta, is first cousin to the king, and John Lansing Callan, young American aviator, have become close friends, through the prince's interest in flying.

Naval officers who escorted Prince Amedeo on a trip of inspection to an Italian submarine flotilla, despaired today of making a sea commander out of their royal protegee. The conning tower was all he saw of a submarine, they said. The rest of the time he remained on deck watching the maneuvers of Callan, who was darting over the Adriatic, testing a new aeroplane.

The prince, whose father is a lieutenant-commander at the front, was a student at the Naples Military college when the war broke out. He met Callan at one of the aviation camps, where the American was instructing recruits to the Italian air forces. Callan took him on a hour's flight and explained the technique of flying.

Prince Amedeo is now enthusiastic over the aero service and over the prowess of Callan, and, according to Callan, "the prince is a great kid."

HE SAYS HE WAS ROBBED WHEN HE IS FOUND ASLEEP

He was robbed of nearly $18 by two men who followed him from a saloon, James Chase told the police last night when they picked him up near the Listman mill, asleep on the sidewalk with one shoe off and his clothes partly removed. He was bleeding from a slight cut on the bridge of the nose.

At the station he was found to have $3.58 in his pockets. He told the police that he had been followed by two men and that the last thing he remembered was buying a bag of peanuts.

The police placed no faith in his hold-up story.

ITALIAN GUNNERS OPEN BIG GAPS IN GORITZ DEFENSES

King, Witnesses Capture of Peak by Bersaglieri from Point Short Distance Away

GENERAL ATTACK ON GORITZ BEGUN

Bersaglieri Assail Austrian Trenches and Italian Guns Dominate Region to the South

ROME, July 7.—Great gaps have been torn in the field defenses surrounding Goritz by the incessant pounding of Italian shells. Official dispatches today reported that the bombardment of the last four days has damaged the Austrian works at the Isonzo bridge head.

King Victor Emanuel, near the firing line on the Italian left, witnessed the capture of Crosis Peak, near Selz, by Bersaglieri, who took 700 prisoners. The king scaled a small plateau, accompanied by an escort of cavalry officers, and watched the struggle from a distance of only a few hundred yards. When the enemy was finally driven from the summit, the king crossed to the ranks of his victorious troops and congratulated them.

A general attack on Goritz from all sides was begun early yesterday. In the region of Plava, Bersaglieri are assailing the Austrian trenches with great fury attempting to break through and attack the fortress from the north. Italian guns on the Plava heights dominate the country south to Goritz and have dispersed several bodies of enemy reinforcements and ammunition trains. Bombardment of the Goritz bridge head is the heaviest artillery action along the Isonzo since the war began.

ALSACE TO BECOME GERMAN OFFENSIVE POINT IS REPORT

Teutons Rumored Planning Driving Enemy from Alsace and Galicia and to Start Peace Overtures

GERMANY TIRING OF WAR?

It Is Thought Germans See Greater Chances in Alsace and Galicia Than in North of France

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, July 7.—The Germans are planning a mighty stroke in Alsace, according to reliable reports that reached the war office today. The withdrawal of rolling stock from the German railways leading into Switzerland is preliminary to a new German offensive. The Teutons will attempt to sweep the French back out of Alsace upon their own frontier.

Small bodies of German reinforcements already have arrived in the valley of the Fecht. Presumably they came from other sectors of the French-Flanders battle line, but the war office has reason to believe that German troops from the Gallian battle fields will be in action in the Vosges within a short time.

The German war program, according to reports brought here today, now calls for these steps:

First—Completion of the drive to sweep the Russians entirely out of Galicia.

Second—Isolation of the Russian army in eastern and southeastern Galicia from the Russian forces in Poland, and a probable new offensive against Warsaw.

Third—An offensive to free German soil completely of the enemy by driving the French out of Alsace.

Fourth—Peace overtures.

Germany Tired of War?

Advices from several sources agree that Germany is tiring of the war and has determined to bring it to an end, if possible, within a few months, while she is in the most advantageous position since the battle of the Marne. Experience has taught the German general staff that they can scarcely hope to batter their way through the strong Anglo-French defensive lines in northern France, even at tremendous cost in human lives. On the other hand, Germany believes that she can clear Galicia of the Russians within a fortnight, hurl the French out of Alsace, and then suggest peace, with her enemies everywhere beyond her frontiers.

French Not Afraid

French military men, however, declared today that the Germans have made their greatest miscalculation in their plans for a sudden, rushing victory in Alsace. The stakes of the first French invasion of the "lost" province when the French, at the beginning of the war, entered Alsace and were quickly driven out will not be repeated.

Since the last French offensive captured Metz and drove the Germans out of important positions before Colmar, the French have "dug themselves in" behind fortified works even stronger than those north of Arras. Consequently the word that Alsace is to be the new battle ground for the German armies from Galicia has aroused no fears here.

DENEEN CHALLENGED FOR LEADERSHIP OF G. O. P. OF ILLINOIS

Mayor Thompson of Chicago Out for Control of Sucker State Republicans

CHICAGO, July 7.—Cowboy Mayor "Bill" Thompson today threw down the gauntlet to former Governor Charles S. Deneen for the control of the republican party in Illinois.

At a meeting last night of followers of Thompson, Robert E. Crowe, attorney, declared Deneen as leader "has led the party to more defeats than any other man in the country."

A joint campaign for Col. Frank C. Lowden, the Ogle county farmer-politician for governor, and Thompson for republican national committeeman was launched today.

ELUSIVE DEFENDANT FINED $10 AFTER A DEBATE IN THE COURT

"What did you call me names for?" "I didn't." "Yes, you did, too!" "I did not!" "Yes, you did!" "I never did!"

The argument began to get warm. Miss Hilda Bromley moved toward the witness chair and Mrs. John Albitz scowled at Miss Bromley.

"What did you—?" began Miss Bromley, but Police Justice C. W. Hunt interrupted.

"This is no place for argument. You may cross-examine the defendant but you can't fight here. Have you any questions to ask?"

Miss Bromley had not, so Judge Hunt sentenced Mrs. Albitz to pay $10 and costs or spend ten days in the city jail for calling Miss Bromley names. Mrs. Albitz made a face at the complainant and thus ended this morning's eventful case of the city of La Crosse vs. Mrs. John Albitz, which has been worrying the police since June 17.

HOLT THREATENED IN LETTER TO PUT BOMB ABOARD BOAT

York Saturday, July 3 for European ports. They were the Philadelphia of the American line, Liverpool, the Chicago of the French line, Bordeaux, the Saxonia of the Cunard line, Liverpool, and the Kristiansfjord of the Norwegian-American line, Bergen.

Interest in the whereabouts of the "dynamite trunk" Frank Holt declared he placed aboard a trans-Atlantic liner, centered today on the Cunard liner Saxonia, steaming across the Atlantic in the direction of Liverpool.

Philadelphia Cleared A wireless from Captain Mills of the American liner Philadelphia directly disposed of the possibility that the trunk was aboard his vessel. Mills messaged that every piece of baggage was identified, following receipt of a wireless message of warning.

The Cunard officers frankly admitted this morning that they heard nothing from Captain Diggle of the Saxonia in response to the warning flashed to him, but they were positive, they declared, that "Holt's" trunk of explosives could never have been smuggled aboard the Saxonia. They pointed out that the inspection of baggage at their piers, particularly since the outbreak of the war, precluded the idea that such a scheme might have succeeded. The Cunard officials, too, scouted the idea that Holt had planted dynamite aboard any liner at all. They accepted the story of Morgan's assailant as the fabrication of an insane man.

Wireless Message Sent. WASHINGTON, July 7.—That the navy department sent wireless messages to the steamships Philadelphia and Saxonia, warning them that Frank Holt had declared a ship which sailed from New York July 3, would be sunk July 7, was confirmed today.

It was stated that the department expected the warning would be picked up by any other boats which sailed the same day.

The first wireless messages were sent out Tuesday night and the stations continued to send further flashes throughout the night.

The warning letter was one which Holt wrote his wife and was forwarded to the state department by Joseph E. Cockrell of Dallas. The letter follows:

The Letter. "The steamer leaving New York July 3, should sink on July 7, God willing. I think it is the Philadelphia or Saxonia, but am not quite sure, as according to schedule these two left on the 3rd."

Holt had written on the margin of his letter, opposite the warning message: "Tear this off until it happened."

It is believed he left out the word "has" before the word "happened." This letter Mrs. Holt immediately turned over to the Texas authorities, who instantly telegraphed to Washington. As soon as the message was received it was transmitted to Supt. Pullman of the Washington police.

He asked the navy department to get its wireless into play. Pullman also communicated with Police Commissioner Woods, of New York, who immediately started a search of all vessels in the harbor for bombs which Holt might have planted.

The navy wireless station at Arlington is not tuned to communicate either with the Philadelphia or the Saxonia, so the commercial wireless was requisitioned and the sea was swept with warnings.

It was stated that the authorities have no means of knowing whether or not the ship was reached, but they believed the calls were received by them.

The New York police were also asked to do everything possible to determine whether a possible confederate could have done it for him.

When the message to Holt's wife was received in Washington, it was at first believed the writer was merely prophesying disaster, but the marginal caution to his wife to tear off that part of the letter is accepted as ominous.

Accomplice Idea Scouted. The fact that he seemed doubtful which ship was in danger led the authorities to believe he had an accomplice whose task was to plant the bombs.

Police Commissioner Woods telephoned Supt. Pullman that Holt had been shot from some one outside his cell, but a later telephone message this morning corrected the statement, although Woods admitted

Mrs. John Albitz proved one of the most elusive defendants who ever faced a local court. Twice the police tried to serve the warrant sworn to by Miss Bromley only to find her "ill" and unable to come to court. Then they arrested her on the street and the case was set for the next day.

With all the complainant's witnesses in court the defendant failed to appear, and police who went after her were told by her landlady that she had jumped through a window and disappeared the night before. For two weeks there was no trace of her, and then Monday she was picked up on a downtown street.

The judge took no chances yesterday. When Mrs. Albitz pleaded not guilty and demanded a trial of the complaint, he set bond at $100 and remanded her to jail in default of the money.

At the trial today Mrs. Albitz told the judge she had run away from the previous appearance because friends had advised her to.

CENTRAL BOARD BILL COMES UP IN SENATE TONIGHT

Tuberculin Cattle Testing Measure Is Laid Over After a Hot Debate

MADISON, Wis., July 7.—The senate this morning deferred action on the central board of education bill until tonight, and devoted practically the entire morning to a discussion of two Milwaukee bills, and the Poole measure relating to the right of cities to demand pure milk.

Senator Fairchild's bills to reduce the membership of the common council of Milwaukee from thirty-seven to eighteen members, and giving the mayor of the city power to appoint the heads of the several city departments, were advanced to engrossment.

Milwaukee's fight to enforce an ordinance demanding a milk supply from tuberculin tested cattle caused a sharp debate. The measure was finally laid over until this afternoon session.

ADRIATIC ENTERS WAR ZONE TODAY

NEW YORK, July 7.—The White Star liner Adriatic, for whose safety some concern is felt because of rumors that she is marked for submarine attack, was due to enter the "war zone" today, providing she has not radically changed her course. Included among her 420 passengers are Premier Borden of Canada, and eight Americans. She carried a large cargo of war munitions when she sailed from New York one week ago.

MANN ACT VICTIM GIVES UP

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 7.—William Short, wanted at Bemidji, Minn., for transporting a girl there from St. Louis for immoral purposes, today gave himself up to St. Paul police and went to Stillwater penitentiary. He was found guilty by the federal court of appeals at St. Louis in January.

that considerable muddle was still surrounding the whole affair.

Holt's letter to his wife apparently was written after he left Washington for New York late Friday night. Mrs. Holt passed it on to the authorities with the statement that she and her father wished the state department to know the facts and perhaps save the lives of persons on board the vessel.

Police Supt. Pullman telegraphed to the Texas authorities this afternoon asking them to try to learn from Mrs. Holt if her husband had any close friend who might possibly have aided him in his "peace campaign." His theory was that Holt perhaps turned over to such an individual the task of planting a bomb on one of the Atlantic liners.

Ships Located.

All the ships which sailed from New York July 3 have been reached by wireless, it was learned on good authority here this afternoon. This was considered as insuring a thorough search for the bomb Frank Holt asserted was hidden on board one of the ships, presumably the Philadelphia or the Saxonia.

Bombs Hidden on British Ship. Two bombs were hidden in the cargo of a British ship that sailed from here some time in May with supplies for the allies, according to H. C. Hill, European representative of an American automobile firm. Hill arrived here today on the Espange.

The bombs did not explode, Hill said, because the ship had an unusually smooth passage. The bombs were made so the heavy rolling of the ship would make them explode. Hill refused to give the name of the ship.

Absence of news that another trans-Atlantic liner had been blown up at sea did not entirely reassure government officials this afternoon that Frank Holt's prediction of such a disaster to the Saxonia or the Philadelphia was the mere raving of a lunatic.

They said they would take his utterance more lightly if he had not shown so remarkable a capacity for actual accomplishment. They were afraid he might have hidden a bomb where no ordinary search would uncover it.

ILLNESS OF CLARK CASTS GLOOM OVER C. E. CONVENTION

President Stricken with Typhoid and Is Unable to Be Present

CHICAGO, July 7.—Serious illness of Rev. Francis E. Clark, president of the Fifth World's and Twenty-seventh International Christian Endeavor convention today, threw a cloud over informal deliberations of 20,000 delegates and visitors.

President Clark, it was announced, has typhoid fever. He is at Sagamore, Mass. Reports today said it was believed the crisis had been passed.

Dr. William Shaw of Boston, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, will take President Clark's place, preside tonight and read the president's annual message Thursday night.

Seventy-seven thousand societies, 4,000,000 members, and practically every civilized nation on the globe excepting Germany, will be represented at tonight's opening.

Among the preliminary meetings today was that of the United Society at the Hotel Sherman at 2 o'clock. A trustees' meeting followed.

In addressing this afternoon's meeting, Dr. Shaw asked for "leave of absence next fall" that he may run for governor of Massachusetts on a prohibition ticket if the dominant parties decline to accept the challenge to make annihilation of the liquor traffic a recognized issue.

POLICE BOARD TO LAY PLANS TO GET MORE PATROLMEN

Date for Examination to Relieve Shortage Will Probably Be Set This Evening

The problem of getting more patrolmen for the city police force will be taken up by the fire and police commission at its monthly meeting this evening. Chief of Police John B. Webber, faced with the necessity of adding at least one and possibly three officers to the force, has none on the eligible list to choose from, he said recently.

A date will probably be set in the near future for examination. Several men have applied for examination since the department's scarcity became known.

Members of the board said today that no other matters were expected to come up. All of the cases pending against officers are cleaned up and no new charges are to be introduced, it was declared, so far as is known.

TAMPERING WITH REDCROSS AGENTS MAY FORCE HAND

Officials in Capital Declare They Will Lay Their Troubles Before Wilson

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Interference by Mexican officials with American Red Cross agents may yet force President Wilson's hand in Mexico. Red Cross officials here today declared they intend to lay the facts regarding Mexican interference with their relief work before the president.

The conflict between the Red Cross workers and the Mexican officials was emphasized today in a statement from the Carranza agency. Charles O'Connor, Red Cross agent in Mexico City, reported conditions there "pitiful." The Carranzistas declared today that O'Connor has been "reassured" and has learned that reports of hundreds of persons dying daily of starvation are false.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand, mother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite unusual, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, presents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

A GARIBALDI TALKS ON MEXICO AS HE IS OFF FOR THE FRONT

(By WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD) (United Press Staff Correspondent)

ROME, June 22.—How does a Garibaldi go off to war? I started out with one of them today and got as far as the railroad station. He talked all the way to the station about Mexico. He had a big hand-bag he had bought in El Paso, Texas. I don't know whether he had a red Garibaldi shirt in the bag. I hardly think he had, for, in this great world war, the Garibaldis have sunk their family individuality and have become ordinary Italian soldiers.

Their father, Ricciotti Garibaldi, had taken his four huge sons to the war office a few days before and said: "I am Ricciotti Garibaldi and I give my four sons to Italy."

Having already given two sons to France in this same war, the elder Garibaldi's action was really thrilling.

And so Giuseppe Garibaldi, the oldest son, started off today for the front with his El Paso hand-bag. We talked of old days in Mexico, when the ill-starred Madero was busy at his task of upsetting the dynasty of Diaz.

LECTURER ANGRY AT USURPATION OF TIME QUITS

William Bruce Leffingwell Sends Chautauqua Audience Home When Orchestra Plays Too Long

Angered because the Thatcher Symphony orchestra took nearly an hour of time that should have belonged to him, William Bruce Leffingwell, travel lecturer, last night refused to go on in the scheduled closing number of the third day's program of the Wisconsin Week chautauqua.

The orchestra program concluded close to 9:30. It had been scheduled to end at 8:30. When the final number had been played Mr. Leffingwell mounted the stage.

"It is too late to begin my lecture now," he told the audience. "Never before have I had my time usurped like this, and I will not attempt to show my pictures under the circumstances. My lecture takes just an hour and it cannot be cut."

CRIMINAL NEGLECT OR COLLUSION IN MADMAN'S DEATH?

street in which enough explosives to wreck several blocks were found.

In the long island cottage were found much paraphernalia that showed Holt had experimented for weeks with his combustibles. Burnt matches, corks and acid stains and fuses were found. Inspector Eagen of the bureau of combustibles, said today that Holt must have been a student of bomb making for years, and that his equipment was the most thorough he had ever seen.

Holt's neighbors who knew him there as "Totter," told the police today he should be there for several weeks.

Coroner Walter R. Jones of Nassau county, who held an autopsy over Holt's body early this morning, stated today that Holt must have jumped thirty feet. The coroner's report showed that Holt died from cerebral hemorrhage, induced by a fractured skull.

At a late hour this morning, Coroner Jones was holding the body at the county morgue, and said he had received no requests from Holt's friends or relatives for the body. It would be held two days, he said, and if unclaimed at that time it would be buried in the county burial plot.

Mrs. Holt Informed. DALLAS, Texas, July 7.—Mrs. Frank Holt was told by her father, O. P. Sensabaugh, of the suicide of her husband, assailant of J. P. Morgan.

"She is bearing up bravely under the shock," her physician said.

"It is understood she received the news without hysteria or fainting." She is a woman of strong mind, the doctor said, and as a result, is likely to come through the strain without nervous prostration, though she is at present in a highly nervous state.

Sensabaugh said that the body will be taken to Ithaca, N. Y., for burial.

Mrs. Holt will leave in a day or two to see Holt's grave, but the family instructed New York attorneys today to bury the body tomorrow.

Only on promise that she could visit the grave did her family and friends prevent her from going to New York today. Judge Cockrell, her attorney, today explained that he had withheld the portion of Holt's letter concerning the ship bomb, considering it confidential, while he notified Solicitor Cone Johnson of the state department, who is a Texan.

In this message Cockrell said "None of us believe he had any accomplices" and pointed to the family's conviction of Holt's insanity. Cockrell said this afternoon the letter contained nothing concerning plots aside from the capitol building, the Morgan hostage plan and the ship explosion.

BATTLE IMPENDS BETWEEN FACTIONS NEAR MONTEREY

Carranzistas Reported Mobilizing Troops to Meet Villa's Advance on Monterey

LAREDO, Texas, July 7.—One of the fiercest battles of the northern Mexico revolution is impending in the Monterey section. Train service on the constitutionalist lines, between Nuevo Laredo and Monterey has been suspended, while trains carry big troop reinforcements to mobilization points south of Monterey. There Gen. Trevino is assembling a large Carranzista army to meet the Villistas now advancing northward on Monterey.

Villa's army is said to contain 10,000 men, while the Carranzistas are expected to have an equal number when all reinforcements arrive. These are going forward from several points, including both Tampico and Nuevo Laredo.

Further information concerning the Paredon battle Monday and yesterday reaching here this morning reported the Carranzistas badly defeated and the victorious Villistas sweeping on to Monterey.

Villa Reported Beaten. GALVESTON, Texas, July 7.—Vera Cruz official advices to the Carranza consul today reported an overwhelming defeat of Villistas in an attack on Tepic City. Several hundred Villistas were reported killed. Villa, the message said, had sentenced Gen. Juan Medina to death for failing to take Guadalajara.

Holt Unbalanced Say Officers of Detroit Concern

DETROIT, Mich., July 7.—It wouldn't take an alienist's affidavit to prove to the officers of a local typewriter company that Frank Holt, J. P. Morgan's assailant, was mentally unbalanced. While he was a professor at Cornell he ordered a typewriter from the local concern, detailing in his first letter the changes he wanted incorporated.

First he wanted a machine equipped with the full German unimut service, the French grave acute accent and circumflex, a couple of dead keys and a Spanish title. These instructions were complied with. Then followed eons and cycles of letters from the professor regarding prices, discounts and every conceivable adjunct of a business deal.

The firm finally asked Holt to repeat his entire list of instructions. The new set contained ideas exactly opposite to those he had supplied. After several months the machine was completed and shipped, but he was not satisfied even then.

REEDS LANDING TO HAVE EIGHTH HOME
COMING ON JULY 24

REEDS, Minn., July 7.—(Special.) Events of forty years ago, the activities of Reed's Landing in its prime, and memories of many a boyhood day in this vicinity, will be recalled by the hundreds who will gather at Reed's Landing Saturday, July 24, for the eighth annual Reed's Landing homecoming, conducted by the Reed's Landing association of the Twin cities.

The association is now making efforts to secure the attendance of many old steamboat men of the old days on the Mississippi, and scores of "old timers" have promised they will be present.

Meals will be served, and all trains will be stopped both to discharge and pick up passengers.

Eve had the best husband in the world—at that time.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

Yesterday's Homers
Lapp, Athletics, off McHale, Cravath, Philadelphia, off Marquard, Giants.
Williams, Cubs, off Toney, Reds.

Fournier, White Sox, off Perryman, Browns.
Chase, Buffeds, off Bluejacket, Brookfeds.
G. Anderson, Brookfeds, off F. Anderson, Buffeds.

Mr. Mack gave further evidence that he is crazy like a fox. He has unearthed another pitcher who beats big leaguers his first time out. He endorses his pay check Tom Knowlson.

That big explosion heard to the eastward was not another bomb, merely the Braves dropping into the cellar.

The effects were the same, however, as the tumble was so hard that Evers, Gowdy, Schmidt and Moran were injured.

The Red Sox took two falls out of the Nationals, and Father Walter Johnson was one of the sacrifices.

The White Sox braced just in time, for the menacing shadow of Bill Carrigan was looming big. As it is, the Browns are but thirteen points behind the fleeing Rowlanders.

BEATRIZ MICHELENA TALENTED STAR IN BRET HART'S DRAMA

The World Film corporation release of the five-part California photoplay "The Lily of Poverty Flat" is based upon the writings of Bret Harte.

Beatriz Michelena is the "Lily," and in the slang of the time, "Some Lily," one of the most beautiful as well as one of the most accomplished actresses on the motion picture screen. Miss Michelena has a role packed full of the finest acting chances.

There is, perhaps, in the part no emotion to which a young girl is subject, that is not represented in this photo-drama.

Incident upon incident, excitement upon excitement, crowd the picture, which is full of scenic beauty, rich settings and numerous fine acting parts.

Moreover, there is the unmistakable Bret Harte atmosphere felt through the many scenes of the offering.

Beatriz Michelena, as Lily Follinsbee, will delight millions as she delighted them with her memorable "Salome Jane."

At the Casino Friday and Saturday.

SELLS FLOTO SHOW SAFETY FIRST CIRCUS

Enter now, if you please, the "Safety First" circus. For when there comes to town the Sells-Floto Circus and Buffalo Bill's Original Wild West Thursday, July 15, there will come also every provision possible for the safety of its customers.

Even the Sells-Floto Circus is served on safety first principles. There is no chance of the transmission of disease, for the reason that the lemonade is sold in individual glasses but that is only the beginning.

Through the inventions of William Curtis, superintendent of the Sells-Floto Circus, no matter how the wind may blow, no matter what storms there may be, there is no danger in the circus. The seats cannot fall—they are guyed together with cables of steel instead of being placed by the old "toe pin" system. They even can be erected on a paved street and hold safely twice as many persons as the room provides for.

The poles of the circus cannot blow down for the same reason—that their guy ropes are of steel. The tent cannot burn, because it has been fireproofed. Not a feature has been neglected about the great circus to make it absolutely safe.

Mechanism of the Player Piano.
In the manufacture of actions for player-pianos there are 20,000 operations from the raw material to the finished product and a total of 4,063 individual parts enters into the making of each action.—Scientific American.

USE OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH INCREASES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Is the human race becoming toothless? This question was asked today by the Race Betterment foundation whose exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition contains statistics showing that more false teeth were sold last year than in any previous year.

Fruits, nuts, vegetables and other foods containing lime should be eaten in greater amounts if the race would retain its teeth, declared Dr. A. J. Reid of Battle Creek, Mich., who is in charge of the display.

COCKROACHES IN THE KITCHEN

How to Exterminate These Pests That Spoil the Food

Nothing is more repulsive to the meat housewife than to see cockroaches crawling around the kitchen, pantry or closet, spoiling food and injuring clothing. The easiest and most effective way to completely exterminate them is with Stearns Electric Paste, the deadly foe of rats, mice, cockroaches, water bugs and all vermin.

Get a two-ounce box of Stearns Electric Paste from your druggist for twenty-five cents and use it at night as directed, and in the morning sweep up a painful of dead cockroaches. Directions in fifteen languages in every package.

NOW APPROACHES THE BIG DAY OF KIDDIES' SUMMER

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the little boys in their families and also the little girls and also the kids who live around the corner and—

And a lot of other kiddies. For in a short time now there will come the shout of the ballyhoo man, the groans and grunts of the wild man and the just-as-wild lions, the trumpeting of the elephants and everything else that goes to make up "the biggest circus in the world." For in a short time now there will come groaning, grunting, squealing, howling and reverberating into town the Sells-Floto Circus and Buffalo Bill's Original Wild West for one day's stay, Thursday, July 15.

And will there be excitement as a result of it? Just ask the kids who are expecting it.

For in addition to the regular circus acts, you know, there is to be Buffalo Bill himself, Buffalo Bill and his real wild west features, with Hugh Clark and his Wyoming cowboys and cowgirls with his ropers and riders and Indians and soldiers and even the Old Deadwood stage-coach.

VALLEY OF MISSING COMES TO MAJESTIC

An all-star cast headed by Jane Miller, daughter of the state treasurer of Missouri and formerly leading woman with the mammoth production of "Life" at the Manhattan Opera house, New York City, is seen in "From the Valley of the Missing," a picture version of Grace Miller White's world-famous novel, made for the Fox Film corporation, William Fox, president. The picture, which is produced by Frank Powell, calls for artists of unusual ability. Ordinary "motion-picture" actors would have been utterly unable to cope with "From the Valley of the Missing." People of exceptional ability therefore had to be engaged, for the picture deals with almost every conceivable type from rough men and women of the river barges to the governor of the state and the most fashionable society of New York and Washington.

"The Valley of the Missing" comes to the Majestic for three days starting next Wednesday.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork, they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and no body can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

(BY J. W. T. MASON)
NEW YORK, July 7.—The German's new objective in the eastern war area is now revealing itself as a drive on Warsaw from the south, coupled with the isolation in southern Russia of the Slav armies which are being forced out of Galicia. This is the intention was the purpose of the offensive campaign with which Austria-Hungary began the war last August. It failed then, and there is no certainty of its success now.

The two German leaders in the present movement are General Von Linsingen and Marshal von Mackensen. Von Linsingen is pushing the Russians through the eastern Galicia into Russian territory. Once over their own frontier, the Russians will be prevented from going to the relief of Warsaw by direct route because of extensive marshes. Between these marshes and the Vistula river, Von Mackensen is operating. The only way he can be attacked by the defeated Galician Slavs is along a narrow plain running from the Galician northeast to the marshes. Von Mackensen must close this gateway himself, which he is doing with his right wing.

The rest of his army is now moving on Ivangorod, the only fortified center on the Vistula south of Warsaw. Warsaw itself is not a fortification. It is defended by a field army and by two entrenched camps on the Vistula. One of these is Novogeorgievsk, twenty miles to the northwest, and the other is Ivangorod, fifty miles to the south. Von Hindenburg tried to capture Warsaw by moving on Novogeorgievsk from all points of the compass, and failed. He also tried to subdue Ivangorod from every direction except that now being taken by Von Mackensen, and also failed.

Von Mackensen's present effort, therefore, is the final hope of the Germans.

BRITISH AERIAL ATTACK ON NORTH COAST IS ROUTED

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., July 7.—British aviators who attempted a great aerial raid on the German North sea coast Sunday morning, were routed by German airmen, it was officially announced here today.

German airships sighted the British sky flotilla off Terschelling at dawn. It consisted of several hydroplanes and aeroplanes, accompanied by motorboats, cruisers and destroyers.

"The hostile airmen were forced to retreat," said the official statement. "One British hydro-aeroplane which succeeded in arising toward the coast, was pursued by German aeroplanes and escaped by flying over Dutch territory."

The man who wears a belt and suspenders at the same time in hot weather is certainly a fiend for punishment.
